DIVINE SERVICE HELD YESTERDAY MORNING AT CHURCH

ADDRESS BY SNODGRASS

Services Held Under Auspices of W. R. C. and D. A. R. Organizations —Take S. S. Picture for "World Call."

Gray haired and age bent veterans o the Civil war, elderly men who had seen service with the American troops in the Spanish American war, and young men who have just come out of the service for their country in the great confliet just passed, were honored yesterday morning at the Divine service at the Christian church. The event was a preliminary one to the regular Memorial Day celebration which is to be held next Friday under the auspices of the executive councils of the W. R. C. and G. A. R. and in the neighborhood of fifty "vets" of widely varying ages were present.

The services started at 11 o'clock and shortly before that time the service men gathered in the street before the church in regular military formation and marched two abreast to the front part of the church, where special seats had been provided for them. At the head of the procession were the two delegates of the D. A. R. and the W. R. C. carrying American flags. The interior of the church was fittingly decorated for the occasion with American flags and bunting, and the patriotic spirit of the service was inaugurated with the opening hymn, "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, the pastor made an address in honor of the men who have given their lives in the four great wars in which America has partaken. He told of the terrible suffering and hardship brought about by the Civil War and innumerable home which were broken up by that great internal conflict. He then spoke of the men who sacrificed their lives for the country in the trouble with Spain and of the later heroes who are lying in Flanders and in France for the cause of world democracy.

In his address Rev. Snodgrass told of the heroic spirit of the men who offered their lives in these great wars and the patriotic spirit which has characterized America since her founding. "The hand of the United States will never be raised to strike an aggressive blow" said the speaker, "but if ever the occasion should again arise when the principles of right are at stake, there will be thousands of men who will be willing as these men have, to offer themselves for the supreme sacrifice."

In closing his talk Rev. Snodgrass read the poem entitled "In Flander's Field," written by a soldier who soon after was killed in battle. We must carry on the work which these men have started," said the speaker, " and one of the big problems which must occupy our attention at this time is to see that the war time prohibition amendment which into effect July 1, is not repealed." Rev. Snodgrass urged that every member of the congregation send a message to President Wilson urging him to refrain from lifting the ban.

Following the regular Sunday School service yesterday morning a picture of the entire membership was taken, over 400 children and adults appearing in the group. The picture will be published in the next issue of the World Call, the national Sunday School magazine.

HAWKER IS SAFE IN SCOTTISH PORT

LANDED AT PORT THURSO AFTER NIGHT ON BRITISH BATTLESHIP

MECHANIC ALSO SAVED

Intrepid Airmen Slated to Arrive in London Tomorrow Morning— London Mail Prize.

London, May 26—Harry Hawker and McKenzie Grieve came ashore this morning for the first time since they started from St. Johns on the evening of May 18 on their ill-fated attempt to cross the Atlantic. They landed at the Scottish port of Thurso after spending the night aboard the British battleship Revenge. They are now on their way to London.

London, May 26.—Harry G. Hawker and Lieut. Com. MacKenzie Grieve, the two airmen who started last Sunday in an attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean from St. John, N. F., have been picked up at sea and landed in Scotland. Both men are in perfect health.

It is officially announced by the admiralty that the aviators were picked up in lattitude 50:20, longitude 29:30 having alighted close to the little Danish steamer, Mary, owing to a stoppage of circulation in the water pipes between the radiator and the water pump. The airplane, a Sopwith machine, was not salvaged.

Hawker and Grieve were in the water for an hour and a half before being taken aboard the steamer Mary.

The first report of the aviators since their "jump off" last Sunday came when the Mary, which was bound from Norfolk to Aarhuus, rounded the Butt of Lewis Sunday and wigwagged the fact that she had Hawker and Grieve aboard.

The Admiralty immediately sent out a fast torpedo boat destroyer in an endeavor to intercept the Mary and take off the aviators. There was an anxious wait of several hours, when the word was flashed that the destroyer had come across the steamer and transferred Hawker and Grieve and was taking them to Thurso on the northern coast of Scotland about 100 miles east of Butt of Lewis.

The destroyer, the Revenge, reported to the admiralty this evening that Hawker and Grieve would sleep on board tonight. The aviators will reach London at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The London Mail, which offered a purse of $50,000 for the first flight by a heavier-than-air craft across the Atlantic ocean, will give Hawker and Grieve a consolation prize of 5,000 pounds.

SCHOOL DISPLAY ATTRACTS MANY

VITALIZED AGRICULTURE EXHIBITION IN HOTCHKIN WINDOW

TEACHES THE PRINCIPALS

Construction of Various Articles Embodies Fundamental Science of Agriculture.

The vitalized agriculture display of the Nodaway County schools which is now on exhibition in the window of the D. E. Hotchkin School Supply store is proving a great attraction to the citizens of Maryville and surrounding country, and the interest which is being shown in the work gives forecast of great developments along this line during the coming school year.

The principal idea of the vitalized agriculture work as it is being taught here, is the connecting up of the actual construction of the various articles with the work of the farm. The course is not designed as a manual training course, but rather to interest the students in the work of the farm and the newer and more modern methods of up to date agriculture.

In the display is shown articles of use about the farm covering every phase of agricultural life. A seed germination testing apparatus made by the student, gives him the practical idea of how such an instrument should be properly constructed and at the same time he is taught the sceintific principals on which the apparatus is to be used. In the same way the building of appliances for the holding of nails, wire and other articles of hardware about the farm, gives the student a clear idea of the various sizes and kinds of these articles and the proper way in which to use them in making the ordinary farm repairs. Sewing outfits, indoor seed drying appliances, the classification of harmful insects, and a widely varying range of similar articles, constructed by the student with his own hands, gives him an idea of the use of these articles and at the same time teaches the principals on which they are built, better than he could possibly obtain from any text book on the subject.

Prof. Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools, who is devoting much time to the vitalized agriculture course, gave a summary of the plan. "The principal of the course is not the manual training which the student learns in the actual construction of these articles," he said, "but rather the connecting up of the principals of agriculture. In building these articles, the student is taught the true principals of farming from the modern standpoint, and the lesson which he learns through the actual work with his hands, makes an impression on him which arouses his intrest in the work and which he will remember and apply."

FIRST M. E. GOES $1,200 OVER TOP

A MEMORIAL SERMON

To Collect $11,000 Yearly—Rex. Cox Shows Connection of Religion and Patriotism.

The First M. E. Church of this city went over their quota by about $1,200 in the Centenary movement campaign which closed yesterday. The amount subscribed will reach $6,350 while their quota was $5,000. This amount will be collected each year or the next five years as all of the pledges are for that period of time. In addition to the Centenary subscriptions, the church budget is $5,000 a year, making over $11,000 collected yearly.

At the morning worship, the pastor of the church, Dr. Gilbert S. Cox gave a sermon on "Keeping Memorial Day" His sermon in part follows.

"Keeping Memorial day is a worthy and patriotic exercise. We draw much inspiration from the example of those who have made our country glorious. Jesus saw its religious value when he instituted a memorial service in the church. We believe in the rehearsal of the bravery of the men of yesterday and today. It is fitting to carry flowers and the flag and to praise the virtues of the past.

"But such observing and such oratory may be superificial and formal. Such exercises only stir our emotion. Such speaking appeals more to our pride than devotion. The only reason for a backward look is for forward motion. The days of daring and sacrifice are found in times of peace as surely as in times of war. The way to keep Memorial day then is to so use the day as to better prepare ourselves for the service of our country in the future.

"There are two things we may gather which we need in the citizenship of tomorrow. First, a Patriotic Religion. We mean by that a religion that is filled with a deeper love of county. One that finds its expression and test for orthodoxy in its service to the state. There are two extremes we must avoid. The German idea of the divinity of the state right or wrong and the socialist idea of despising and tearing down all love for the state. In America more than any place in the world can we truly religiously love the state and serve the state in the name of Christ because we feel that our state is the servant of the people, that the Kingrom of God is being built by our Government. We must religiously preserve our nationality and hold to our mission to the world. We mean by patriotic religion too a democratic church. The God to whom the Kaiser appealed was the old tribal autocratic God who still has too great a vogue in our religious thought. The God of the New Testament is one who is responsible for and responsive to the struggles and sorrows of all men every where. That spirit in our religion will make it more Christian, more American.

"Second we must have a more Religious patriotism. By that we do not mean the kind the Jews had when they, in the name of God of Israel wished to dash to pieces the little ones of their enemies. Nor the kind that would condone in Germany the cruelties and barbarities of its armies in the name of the Kingdom of God. But a Patriotism that feels that is Christ's great program to create and preserve a country such as ours, and that any sacrifice we make for it is sharing the sufferings Christ endured on the Cross when he sacrificed his life fighting greed, race prejudice, militarism, graft, ecclesiaticism and political corruption. We have appealed to religion in war we must have that same high motive in peace.

"In such a "Keeping Memorial day" we dedicate our lives to "that cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion." "

MEMBER MISSOURI PRESS ASSOCIATION

SEE MISSOURI FIRST.

With the arrival of spring and the coming of summer people begin to make plans for summer trips and outings. "The East" and "the West" are the places that most Missourians aspire to visit and California, Colorado or New York is the acme of a summer pleasure trip to them. Next in favor probably comes Niagara with the Great Lakes closely following.

But within our own state we have places of scenic beauty and historic interest that would rival any of these. Let us plan our trip in our own state this year and see its places of beauty and interest.

Beside St. Louis and Kansas City, which are both leading cities of the country, Missouri has many other places of note. Probably no other town in the United States has preserved more of the surroundings of its great men than Hannibal, Mo., has of Mark Twain, "The world's greatest humorist." The buildings still stand where Mark Twain spent his boyhood and where he began work in a newspaper office. Several miles up the Mississippi River from Hannibal is the famous Mark Twain cave, in which many of the scenes in "Tom Sawyer" are laid. Over in Florida, Monroe County, is a cottage owned by M. A. Violette which marks Mark Twain's birthplace.

Pike County, the home of Champ Clark, is also the home of the largest nurseries in the world—the Stark Brothers' nurseries in Louisiana. "For its country homes, its miles of rock road and its old estates, Pike County is not to be surpassed," it has been said.

Nor does Missouri lack in health resorts. Elcelsior Springs, with its twenty-seven different mineral waters, its fine hotels and its country club, can vie with Colorado Springs and Hot Springs.

No country in the world surpasses the Ozarks of Southwest Missouri for rustic beauty. For cultured beauty there is the Missouri Botanical Garden in St. Louis, which today takes rank among the leading scientific institutions of the world.

In Howard County near Franklin stands the marker of the site of the first newspaper printed west of St. Louis, the Missouri Intelligencer and Boon's Lick Advertiser.

And so is Missouri the home of many other places of beauty and interest. Let's become acquainted with them this summer and see Missouri first!—The University Missourian.

G. KUENSTER DIED FRIDAY AT DENVER

Body Will Arrive in Maryville Wednesday for Burial Here—Was a Resident of Maryville for Many Years.

Mrs. Frank Barmann received word Saturday of the death of her uncle, G. Kuenster at his home in Denver, Colo., Friday. The remains will arrive in Maryville on the noon Burlington train Wednesday and will be taken to the St. Mary's cemetery where burial will take place. The G. A. R. will have charge of the services at the cemetery.

Mr. Kuenster was a resident of Maryville for many years up to about fifteen years ago when he moved to Denver. He was born in County Coblenz, Germany, December 25, 1837, and was reared to manhood there. At the age of 19 years, he immigrated to this country and settled in Monroe County, Ill., where he resided three months, and then went to Quincy, Ill. A short time afterwards he removed to Grant County, Wis., and engaged in farming. He subsequently returned to Illinois and engaged in clerking at Liberty, where he remained one year. He went next to New Orleans, La., where he resided six months, and from there he settled in Kansas City and embarked in mercantile pursuits until the breaking out of the war.

In 1861, Mr. Kuenster returned to Illinois and enlisted in Company B, twenty-second Illinois regiment, serving three months, and upon obtaining his discharge he re-enlisted in Company E, twenty-fourth Illinois Volunteers, serving three years and one month. He took an active part in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chickamaga, and others of lesser note. He was for three months steward of the hospital at Bowling Green, Ky., and had under his command a small body of troops for the defense of that institution. After obtaining his discharge in 1864 he returned to Grant county, Wis., and engaged in farming, and at the expiration of a four years' residence there he removed to Nodaway County, engaging in the grocery business in Maryville in 1868. Five months later he went to the county of his nativity on a visit, which lasted seven months. At the end of that time he again came to Maryville, and established the business conducted by Wray & Moore in the early eighties. He also was a wholesale dealer in coal oil here.

Mr. Kuenster was united in marriage April 10, 1865 to Miss Elizabeth B. Hellauer, a native of Germany. Six children survive who are Mrs. John McCoy of Arizona; Ferd Kuenster of California; Mollie and Chloe Kuenster at home; Harry Kuenster in the army, and Nettie Kuenster, who is a nun in a western convent. Mrs. Kuenster died several years ago and is buried at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Kuenster was city tax collector of Maryville one term, and was also for a like period county supervisor under the old system.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS MEET IN K. C. DECORATION DAY

Expect 20,000 Missouri and Kansas Delegates in Convention Hall —Taft to Preside.

Kansas City, May 26.—From every section of Missouri and Kansas on May 30, (Decoration Day) delegates and delegations will assemble here for the League of Nations convention. Arrangements are being made by the joint Missouri and Kansas committee to seat the delegates 20,000 strong in Convention hall for the night session.

The big night meeting will be presided over by ex-President William Howard Taft, who will deliver the principal address. Mr. Taft will not arrive here in time for the meetings during the day as he is scheduled to speak in the afternoon at Topeka, Kansas.

Throughout Decoration Day, demonstrations will be held in different parts of the city. A meeting for the women of Missouri and Kansas who will attend the convention, has been arranged at which Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, honorary president of the American Woman Suffrage Association and chairman of the woman's committee of the National Council of Defense, will speak.

John H. Walker, past president of the United Mine Workers of America, and one of the strongest powers in the American Federation of Labor, will address some 5,000 union labor delegates from throughout the Southwest.

Prominent men of both political parties are co-operating in making all arrangements on a strictly non-partisan basis. O. H. Dean, general chairman of the League of Nations Convention Committee of Missouri and Kansas, designated the meeting as a "Convention of Americanism."

It is the announced purpose, however, of the convention leaders that the assembly is being called, and a general invitation issued to all who desire to attend from the Middle West, for the purpose of hearing the discussion of the League of Nations Covenant by some of the most noted leaders and speakers in the country. The demonstration, it is declared, is expected to place the middle West on record as favoring the ratification of the League of Nations Covenant by the United States senate, which is now in session.

RECOGNIZE MISSOURI IN BIG EDUCATIONAL MEET

Miss T. C. Gecks Selected as a Speaker at Milwaukee Convention—"New Democracy" Keynote of Session.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—The State of Missouri has been given signal recognition in the plans for America's greatest educational convention by the selection of Miss T. C. Gecks, a member of the Board of Education of St. Louis, as one of the speakers in the main session of the National Education Association Convention to be held in Milwaukee, June 28 to July 5.

It will be an epoch-making convention because its great problem is the rebuilding of the world by the war and the part of education in this great task. On the other hand, it will be a convention for the average teacher and nearly half of the attendance will be of women teachers from the grade schools of the cities and from the rural schools. The Hotel Plankinton was selected for the headquarters of the Missouri delegation.

The development of the new democracy is to be the keynote of the entire convention, however, as it applies to the public schools and this will be discussed by both the average teachers and some of the world's greatest educators. It is even hoped that President Wilson will be able to be here to speak on the League of Nations. Word from the White House is that he will come if he can.

The part of "Elementary Education" is assigned to Miss Gecks, who is in charge of the primary educational work in the schools of St. Louis.

Another Missouri speaker will be Henry J. Waters of the Kansas City Star, selected as the representative of the Agricultural Educational authorities on the general topic "The new world and the demand that it will make upon public education." Mr. Waters was for many years on the Kansas State Agricultural College before becoming a newspaper writer.

During the general session Thursday morning, July 3, under the subject "Contribution of Teachers to the Development of Democracy" the part of the rural schools will be addressed by Mrs. Marie Turner Harvey of the Porter Rural School of Kirksville, Mo., one of the most remarkable rural schools in the world.

To Give Play Monday Night.

The St. Mary's dramatic club will present the play "A True American" at St. Mary's Hall on Monday night. June 2. This play was put on by the club a short time before Lent and was such a success that they were requested again to put it on.

POLK GRADUATION HERE SATURDAY

57 RURAL SCHOOL STUDENTS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

THE ADDRESS BY COOPER

County Superintedent Cooper Urges Graduates to Continue Their Education Along Agricultural Lines.

The annual eighth grade graduation exercises of the Polk township rural schools were held Saturday afternoon at the First M. E. Church in this city, fifty-seven members of the graduating class receiving their diplomas.

The church was packed by the large crowd who came from throughout Nodaway and surrounding counties to witness the program presented by the youngsters.

The program consisted of a number of recitations and musical numbers by the graduates from each of the various schools and was opened with an invocation by Rev. R. E. Snodgrass.

The final part of the program was the presentation of the diplomas by County Superintendent of Schools Bert Cooper. Following the presentation of the diplomas, Prof. Cooper made an address to the graduates in which he urged upon them the necessity to continue their education, and suggested that every student make a study of the new methods of agriculture. In his talk Prof. Cooper stated that the business of farming is now one of the most important in the world, and he explained to the students that the opportunities which are offered them here at home are very promising. He brought out the work of the modern farmer and the important place which he fills in the world today, and urged the students who have already learned the principals of farming to continue along this line.

Was Eventually Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for seven long years with a lame back, irregularities and pain. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and been helped by it."—Mrs. MARGARET NESS, 1846 E. Hazzard St., Philadelphia., Pa.

OLDEST M. U. BUILDING TO GO.

Observatory on Main Campus Will be Torn Down in Short Time.

Columbia, May 26.—The telescope in the Laws Observatory on the West Campus of the University of Missouri is being dismantled and the historic observatory soon will be wrecked. Laws Observatory will be replaced by the new building for the School of Journalism, funds for which were given by Ward A. Neff, a graduate of the School of Journalism.

The part of the observatory that constitutes the cone, clock-room and transit-room is the oldest structure now standing on the campus of the University. This section of the building was built in 1853 on the site where the Engineering Building now stands.

The observatory was moved to its present location on the north side of the Quadrangle in 1880. Shortly after the building had been moved, Dr. S. S. Laws, a former president of the University, gave money with which to purchase a telescope and to erect an octagon, the room which holds the telescope. The structure was then given the name Laws Observatory.

The telescope is 71 years old, the first telescope of any considerable size west of the Mississippi River, according to Prof. R. H. Baker of the department of astronomy.

HEALTH SERVICE AIDS DOCTORS.

Laboratory at the University of Missouri Answers Many Calls from Physicians of State.

Columbia, May 26.—From fifty to one hundred requests rom physicians of the state come in each week to the public health laboratory of the department of preventive medicine of the University of Missouri. These range all the way from requests for anti-typhoid vaccine to an analysis of a mother's milk.

The great object of this public health laboratory is to help doctors make diagnosis.

Blood specimens are examined for typhoid fever, sputum for indications of tuberculosis, germs from the throat for diphtheria, and water is analyzed for municipalties and for individuals whose requests come through doctors.

Vials are prepared at the laboratory and sent out for sputum, as great care has to be taken to have such specimens sent in proper containers. Cases are also sent out for samples of water. These cases contain sterilized bottles and ice that the water may arrive at the laboratory in a cool condition. Anti-typhoid vaccine is sent out from the laboratory free to the doctors of the state. Occasionally the head of a dog is received by the laboratory with the request that it be examined for rabies. Pathological specimens of tumors also are examined for indications of cancer.

Sets of slides have been prepared by Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the health laboratory for the use of doctors in giving lectures on various subjects of interest to the general public. These slides as well as a lantern are lent free to doctors requesting them. Members of the laboratory also give illustrated talks on medical and sanitary subjects whenever they are requested. This public health laboratory is one of the many things the University is doing which has earned for it the name of the State's Service Station.

SPRATT TO RUN FOR CONGRESS.

St. Joseph Man Says He Will be a Candidate Again.

In a letter to C. L. Kennedy of St Joseph, William E. Spratt of St. Joseph, now in France as a Y. M. C. A. secretary, states point blank that it is his intention to run for Congress from this district. In his letter, Mr. Spratt had the ollowing about his candidacy:

"About my running for congress. Sure I am going to run for congress. I said that last August. My coming over here has nothing to do with that. If Gabbert wants to run that is his privilege—let him run. If I hadn't gotten into this race, maybe I would not enter, but Gabbert's decision to enter or stay out has nothing to do with my determination. I am in and I am going to stay in. It is an utter piece of foolishness for Gabbert to let a few fellows steer him into the hardest race he could pick, and in consideration of all the other desirable positions he could get into. There is no sense in he and I putting ourselves against each other, when we could just as well help one another. I have nothing more to say. I have said my mind and determination.

"I am coming home now before many weeks, and it will be a Grand and Glorious Feeling, to be back in the best town on earth."

"REMEMBER SOLDIERS MAY 30."

Governor Gardner Makes Appeal in Memorial Day Proclamation.

Jefferson City, May 26.—Governor Gardner Saturday issued the following Memorial Day proclamation:

"I need scarcely to urge the people of this commonwealth this year to pay homage to our soldier dead. The very heart of the Nation has been touched with a sense of our new and great loss. Fresh within our memory are the scenes of a few short months ago when our brave soldier lads marched away, leaving friends and homeland behind, to defend their country and their flag. Thousands of these brave lads now sleep the long sleep in fair France and on this Memorial Day the hands of strangers will place the wreath and the flower upon their graves, and in a strange land the Stars and Stripes will wave above them. Some of our noble daughters also made the supreme sacrifice, and tenderly, lovingly, we honor their memory.

"In thousands of our homes on this Memorial Day the service flag, with its star of gold, will be a mute reminder of the price that home has paid for peace.

"With a deeper reverence for our soldier dead of other wars, and with a love more tender, we will pay tribute to their memory. With confidence, I call upon the people of this commonwealth to fittingly observe Friday, May 30, as Memorial Day in honor of those who have given their lives to preserve the Nation, to maintain liberty and to make the world safe for humanity."

THE PAY OF THE TEACHERS.

From the St. Louis Republic.

In the general clamor for justly higher standards of living and better pay for work performed, the voice of the public school teacher is making itself heard. Certainly the teacher has a claim that needs little urging. The underpaid teacher has been with us for a very long time. Since the first public school was started in the cabin of the pioneer the teacher has taken the greater part of his pay in prestige and professional pride.

The low wages paid have long since driven the majority of the men teachers out of the profession. These same low wages are now driving ambitious women out of the ranks of the underpaid. depleted teaching forces of America. At the present time Boards of Education are having the hardest work they have ever known in filling the school staffs with even passable teachers. The war took away thousands of men who will never go back to the schoolroom. It carried into other lines of work many thousands of women who have no intention of teaching again.

And there was never a time when there was more need for the teaching profession. An effort is being made to give 8,000,000 aliens an understanding of the English language. There is a general desire to reduce and wipe out the high percentages of illiteracy shown by many of our States. The war showed us plainly that such conditions are a menace to the stability of America as we now know it.

We are not matching these demands with any disposition to increase the pay of the teacher. We are apparently content to admit the teacher is underpaid, to go on paying our school janitors more than we pay a teacher who has spent years in learning a profession and to fight with vindictive bitterness any attempt to increase school taxes that the teacher may be better paid.

Billiousness is a disorder involving he stomach, liver and bowels. It opens he door for disease. Prickly Ash Biters is the right remedy. It drives out ile and impurities and makes a man eel bright, vigorous and cheerful. rice $1.25 per bottle.—Maryville Drug Jo., Special Agents.—Adv.

WAR DEPARTMENT WILL RETAIN ORDNANCE PLANTS.

Washington, D. C.—During the war the government expended more than 130,000,000 in building and enlarging facilities of forty-three plants and three government arsenals for the production of artillery material, a statement by Assistant Secretary of War Benedict Crowell shows. These facilities were developed for all purposes, and succeeded in a marvelous degree in meeting the needs of the army.

To be able to meet the manufacturing requirements of any possible future emergency, the Chief of Ordnance has made a study of possible requirements and has obtained the Secretary of War's approval for the retention of certain plants. It is not expected to operate the production plants, but to keep them in readiness that production may begin immediately if occasion should ever require. At the same time, small production units will be built up at the arsenals to meet the needs of peace-time manufacture and also manufacture new types of artillery material which may be developed from time to time.

Under this plan, the War Department will always be ready to meet an emergency and, should another ever arise, can immediately begin the production of immense quantities of ordnance.

Booklets to Show Dairy Trend.

A series of four booklets, showing where the United States stands in the dairy business in relation to other countries, is to be published by the United States Department of Agriculture through the Dairy Division. While based on statistics dating back to 1850, the booklets will not contain tables of figures, but will give information in graphic chart with explanations showing the trend of the various branches of the dairy industry. The first booklet deals with dairy live stock, the second with the butter industry, the third with the cheese industry, and the fourth with other dairy products, such as market milk, ice cream, and condensed milk. The bulletins also show a development and trend of the industry in the United States and other countries.

HOW AMERICAN FARMS ARE COMING THROUGH WITH RYE.

More acres and more bushels of rye were harvested in 1918 than in any previous year in the history of the United States.

From 1849 to 1909 rye production in the United States was practically stationary. From 1909 to 1918 the production was almost tripled, the greatest increase coming in 1917 and 1918..

Five years ago there was approximately 1 acre of rye for each 21 acres of wheat in the United States. In 1918 there was approximately 1 acre of rye for each 10 acres of wheat.

The 1918 rye crop was more than 76,000,000 bushels.

The world production of rye amounts to about one and two-thirds billion bushels, somewhat less than half the annual wheat production.

The United States Department of Agriculture thinks it probable, now that farmers are becoming familiar with the crop and its advantages, that rye will have a permanently larger place in American agriculture, and that from an agricultural point of view there should be a further considerable increase in production.

(By S. C. BOWER, M. D.)

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin and feel the exhileration of real good health tingling thru their bodies. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against ills of all kinds. You are apt to suffer from an attack of Influenza if your health is run down.

Purify the blood and you can defy influenza. This is the time to clean house and freshen up a bit.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the Motorist

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana), as a public servant, interprets its obligation to the 2,000,000 motorists in the territory it serves as reaching beyond simply supplying them with gasoline and lubricating oils.

The Company feels that it falls short of its full duty, if in the manufacture of gasoline and lubricating oils the elements of economy, efficiency, dependability, and protection are not inherent in every gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) requires of its products, that, in addition to furnishing dependable power and lubrication the car investment of the motorist must be protected—his repair bills must be minimized—the life of the car must be prolonged.

Every frictional surface must be conserved. The engine must respond instantly in emergencies. The motorist must get every possible mile out of every gallon of Standard Oil gasoline which he buys.

To make these products as available to the 5-gallon buyer as to the 500- or 5000-gallon buyer, the Company maintains 1300 service stations conveniently located throughout the territory.

The Company realizes that its interests and those of the motorist are a unit—tangible and concrete.

Intelligent self-interest impels the Company to safeguard every product it manufactures and distributes that it may at all times give to the motorist the utmost of value and service.

No Soldiers To Return To America Illiterate

Secretary Baker during his recent visit to the American forces in Europe was much impressed with the educational system introduced in the army, and speaks with special enthusiasm about the great work being done by the American Expeditionary Force University at Beaume, France. He said the buildings at Beaume were originally put up for a base hospital, and the war came to an end before they were occupied. The university was established there and has over nine thousand students. There are eleven departments in the university, including a school of agriculture, a divinity school, a school of law, a school of medicine, a college of arts, a college of sciences and a school of dentistry.

College Professors Instruct.

"They got their teachers," said Secretary Baker, "in part from the teachers which the Y. M. C. A. brought over when it planned to do work along that line, but for the most part the teachers are college professors or college graduates who were in the ranks themselves as soldiers, and who have volunteered as teachers; and as you go through the university you find, for instance, a private on the platform lecturing on integral calculus. There will be seated down in the classroom a major, a couple of captains, a lieutenant or two, sergeants and corporals; but the man who knows is the private, he is the professor, and the military hierarchy is completely upset before the intellectual hierarchy. Perhaps in the next department of the university, however, a major will be the lecturer, and so on, sometimes an officer, sometimes a noncommissioned officer, and often a privte.

"Men are sent to the university by volunteering. They have, also, a university extension course which is something like the old chautauqua literary circle. This was established for the benefit of men who could not get to the university, or did not want to do so. These men write in, for instance, that they got as far as algebra in mathematics and would like to take up plane geometry. They send him a text book, tell him how to study it, and he sends in the results—the work is carried on in this way. It is a complete educational system.

"The university at Beaume is striking in two respects: In the first place, the cheering and stirring thing about it to me is the readiness with which the American soldier lays down his arms and takes up his books, and, in the second place, it shows what, I think, in the future will be the normal occupation of a permanent army. Instead of the men of the permanent army living in idleness, we will have them doing military things the rest of the time, so that they will come out with an education and the army will become the West Point of the enlisted men. That is really a great idea.

"In addition to the university, as you know, some 3,000 of our men are matriculated in colleges in England and France. They are actually in Cambridge, Oxford, the University of London, University of Manchester, Trinity College of the University of Dublin, and in the Sorbonne and other French universities, so that 3,000 of our men are in foreign universities and are taking courses there.

"They have at Beaume, also, as a part of the university, what they call the normal college—and to this school selected men are sent from the various divisions in France. These men take a course in pedagogy. They go back to their divisions after three or four weeks of this, and set up schools to teach the men in the elementary branches.

"Of course, all the men in the university agree to stay until the completion of the course for which they have matriculated, which is three or four months, I think.

None to Return Illiterate.

"The idea of all of this is that no soldier will return to the United States illiterate. In addition to providing opportunities for higher education, and education in the professions, they get down to the A B C's of the matter by giving men an opportunity to take up elementary subjects, this making it practically impossible for anybody to get back to the United States without having acquired a knowledge of English sufficient to enable him to read and write.

"The enthusiasm of the men for educational work is the most amazing thing. Everybody at the university is there voluntarily and the professors are, many of them, men of great eminence; the head of the department of philosophy, for instance is a professor of philosophy in one of the great American universities. I was told with one accord, every place I went, that a man in Beaume would get the same amount of work done in a month that the average, or better than average, college student would do in three months. The boys are more mature. For some time their minds have been fallow—at rest on intellectual subjects. This educational activity is taking the place of the old interest in war and the central idea is sliding over from one thing to the other, so that their concentration of attention is marvelous.

"I think it is entirely likely, from what we are seeing over there, that the development of a serious educational program in the Army itself is a possibility; and, of course, if possible, is a desirable thing."

And Minister Asks a 10 Million Dollar American Bank for Latin State.

From the Portland Oregonian.

San Francisco, Calif.—The first and greatest need of the Republic of Salvador is money, said Salvador Sol, new minister plenipotentiary for that country at Washington. He recently arrived from South America. The money is needed at once, according to Minister Sol.

"Twenty-five million dollars are needed properly to take care of our coffee crop and the government of the republic will not only welcome foreign capital, but will make every fair inducement to attract it," he said. "We are particularly anxious to increase our commercial relations with the United States.

"The reason Salvador did not actively enter into the war against Germany was there was an old clique of politicians favorable to that country. Since the war that element has been completely eliminated. The administration now is entirely in the hands of pro-American officials. Our president, Jorge Melendez, was educated in the United States and I am one of a number of others in official positions who have had the same advantages.

"We are particularly anxious for some large banks that can do business in a big way to open up in Salvador. There are two banks of a capital of ½ million dollars which have started business, but what we really need is an institution which will have a capitalization of at least 10 million dollars

"Any man who has capital, say about $10,000, will find excellent opportunities for investment which, with work and care will bring him returns well worth while. I should strongly advise against any young man who has only his hands and his brain to depend on going down there.

"Our coffee, before the war, was consumed in France, Italy, Germany and England. Now Germany is eliminated and the United States is getting one-half our crop.

"It may be my particular endeavor to foster the commercial relation between the two countries and to interest capital.

"We rely for our protection on the United States, confident of its fairness; so much so that we sent our delegate to the Paris peace convention instructed to concur with the vote of the United States on all questions which came up. We do not fear anything, as we are confident the Monroe Doctrine will stand and that this country will safeguard the nations of this continent."

CHRISTIAN CHUR... HONORS WAR VET...

Services Held Under Auspices of W. R. C. and D. A. R. Organizations —Take S. S. Picture for "World Call."

Gray haired and age bent veterans o the Civil war, elderly men who had seen service with the American troops in the Spanish American war, and young men who have just come out of the service for their country in the great conflict just passed, were honored yesterday morning at the Divine service at the Christian church. The event was a preliminary one to the regular Memorial Day celebration which is to be held next Friday under the auspices of the executive councils of the W. R. C. and G. A. R. and in the neighborhood of fifty "vets" of widely varying ages were present.

The services started at 11 o'clock and shortly before that time the service men gathered in the street before the church in regular military formation and marched two abreast to the front part of the church, where special seats had been provided for them. At the head of the procession were the two delegates of the D. A. R. and the W. R. C. carrying American flags. The interior of the church was fittingly decorated for the occasion with American flags and bunting, and the patriotic spirit of the service was inaugurated with the opening hymn, "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, the pastor made an address in honor of the men who have given their lives in the four great wars in which America has partaken. He told of the terrible suffering and hardship b ought about by the Civil War and innumerable home which were broken up by that great internal conflict. He then spoke of the men who sacrificed their lives for the country in the trouble with Spain and of the later heroes who are lying in Flanders and in France for the cause of world democracy.

In his address Rev. Snodgrass told of the heroic spirit of the men who offered their lives in these great wars and the patriotic spirit which has characterized America since her founding. "The hand of the United States will never be raised to strike an aggressive blow" said the speaker, "but if ever the occasion should again arise when the principles of right are at stake, there will be thousands of men who will be willing as these men have, to offer themselves for the supreme sacrifice."

In closing his talk Rev. Snodgrass read the poem entitled "In Flander's Field," written by a soldier who soon after was killed in battle. We must carry on the work which these men have started," said the speaker, " and one of the big problems which must occupy our attention at this time is to see that the war time prohibition amendment which into effect July 1, is not repealed." Rev. Snodgrass urged that every member of the congregation send a message to President Wilson urging him to refrain from lifting the ban.

Following the regular Sunday School service yesterday morning a picture of the entire membership was taken, over 400 children and adults appearing in the group. The picture will be published in the next issue of the World Call, the national Sunday School magazine.

HAWKER IS SAFE IN SCOTTISH PORT

Intrepid Airmen Slated to Arrive in London Tomorrow Morning— London Mail Prize.

London, May 26—Harry Hawker and McKenzie Grieve came ashore this morning for the first time since they started from St. Johns on the evening of May 18 on their ill-fated attempt to cross the Atlantic. They landed at the Scottish port of Thurso after spending the night aboard the British battleship Revenge. They are now on their way to London.

London, May 26.—Harry G. Hawker and Lieut. Com. MacKenzie Grieve, the two airmen who started last Sunday in an attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean from St. John, N. F., have been picked up at sea and landed in Scotland. Both men are in perfect health.

It is officially announced by the admiralty that the aviators were picked up in lattitude 50:20, longitude 29:30 having alighted close to the little Danish steamer, Mary, owing to a stoppage of circulation in the water pipes between the radiator and the water pump. The airplane, a Sopwith machine, was not salvaged.

Hawker and Grieve were in the water for an hour and a half before being taken aboard the steamer Mary.

The first report of the aviators since their "jump off" last Sunday came when the Mary, which was bound from Norfolk to Aarhuus, rounded the Butt of Lewis Sunday and wigwagged the fact that she had Hawker and Grieve aboard.

The Admiralty immediately sent out a fast torpedo boat destroyer in an endeavor to intercept the Mary and take off the aviators. There was an anxious wait of several hours, when the word was flashed that the destroyer had come across the steamer and transferred Hawker and Grieve and was taking them to Thurso on the northern coast of Scotland about 100 miles east of Butt of Lewis.

The destroyer, the Revenge, reported to the admiralty this evening that Hawker and Grieve would sleep on board tonight. The aviators will reach London at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The London Mail, which offered a purse of $50,000 for the first flight by a heavier-than-air craft across the Atlantic ocean, will give Hawker and Grieve a consolation prize of 5,000 pounds.

SCHOOL DISPLAY ATTRACTS MANY

TEACHES THE PRINCIPALS

Construction of Various Articles Embodies Fundamental Science of Agriculture.

The vitalized agriculture display of the Nodaway County schools which is now on exhibition in the window of the D. E. Hotchkin School Supply store is proving a great attraction to the citizens of Maryville and surrounding country, and the interest which is being shown in the work gives forecast of great developments along this line during the coming school year.

The principal idea of the vitalized agriculture work as it is being taught here, is the connecting up of the actual construction of the various articles with the work of the farm. The course is not designed as a manual training course, but rather to interest the students in the work of the farm and the newer and more modern methods of up to date agriculture.

In the display is shown articles of use about the farm covering every phase of agricultural life. A seed germination testing apparatus made by the student, gives him the practical idea of how such an instrument should be properly constructed and at the same time he is taught the sceintific principals on which the apparatus is to be used. In the same way the building of appliances for the holding of nails, wire and other articles of hardware about the farm, gives the student a clear idea of the various sizes and kinds of these articles and the proper way in which to use them in making the ordinary farm repairs. Sewing outfits, indoor seed drying appliances, the classification of harmful insects, and a widely varying range of similar articles, constructed by the student with his own hands, gives him an idea of the use of these articles and at the same time teaches the principals on which they are built, better than he could possibly obtain from any text book on the subject.

Prof. Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools, who is devoting much time to the vitalized agriculture course, gave a summary of the plan. "The principal of the course is not the manual training which the student learns in the actual construction of these articles," he said, "but rather the connecting up of the principals of agriculture. In building these articles, the student is taught the true principals of farming from the modern standpoint, and the lesson which he learns through the actual work with his hands, makes an impression on him which arouses his intrest in the work and which he will remember and apply."

FIRST M. E. GOES $1,200 OVER TOP

A MEMORIAL SERMON

To Collect $11,000 Yearly—Rex. Cox Shows Connection of Religion and Patriotism.

The First M. E. Church of this city went over their quota by about $1,200 in the Centenary movement campaign which closed yesterday. The amount subscribed will reach $6,350 while their quota was $5,000. This amount will be collected each year or the next five years as all of the pledges are for that period of time. In addition to the Centenary subscriptions, the church budget is $5,000 a year, making over $11,000 collected yearly.

At the morning worship, the pastor of the church, Dr. Gilbert S. Cox gave a sermon on "Keeping Memorial Day" His sermon in part follows.

"Keeping Memorial day is a worthy and patriotic exercise. We draw much inspiration from the example of those who have made our country glorious. Jesus saw its religious value when he instituted a memorial service in the church. We believe in the rehearsal of the bravery of the men of yesterday and today. It is fitting to carry flowers and the flag and to praise the virtues of the past.

"But such observing and such oratory may be superificial and formal. Such exercises only stir our emotion. Such speaking appeals more to our pride than devotion. The only reason for a backward look is for forward motion. The days of daring and sacrifice are found in times of peace as surely as in times of war. The way to keep Memorial day then is to so use the day as to better prepare ourselves for the service of our country in the future.

"There are two things we may gather which we need in the citizenship of tomorrow. First, a Patriotic Religion. We mean by that a religion that is filled with a deeper love of county. One that finds its expression and test for orthodoxy in its service to the state. There are two extremes we must avoid. The German idea of the divinity of the state right or wrong and the socialist idea of despising and tearing down all love for the state. In America more than any place in the world can we truly religiously love the state and serve the state in the name of Christ because we feel that our state is the servant of the people, that the Kingrom of God is being built by our Government. We must religiously preserve our nationality and hold to our mission to the world. We mean by patriotic religion too a democratic church. The God to whom the Kaiser appealed was the old tribal autocratic God who still has too great a vogue in our religious thought. The God of the New Testament is one who is responsible for and responsive to the struggles and sorrows of all men every where. That spirit in our religion will make it more Christian, more American.

"Second we must have a more Religious patriotism. By that we do not mean the kind the Jews had when they, in the name of God of Israel wished to dash to pieces the little ones of their enemies. Nor the kind that would condone in Germany the cruelties and barbarities of its armies in the name of the Kingdom of God. But a Patriotism that feels that is Christ's great program to create and preserve a country such as ours, and that any sacrifice we make for it is sharing the sufferings Christ endured on the Cross when he sacrificed his life fighting greed, race prejudice, militarism, graft, ecclesiaticism and political corruption. We have appealed to religion in war we must have that same high motive in peace.

"In such a "Keeping Memorial day" we dedicate our lives to "that cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion." "

SEE MISSOURI FIRST.

With the arrival of spring and the coming of summer people begin to make plans for summer trips and outings. "The East" and "the West" are the places that most Missourians aspire to visit and California, Colorado or New York is the acme of a summer pleasure trip to them. Next in favor probably comes Niagara with the Great Lakes closely following.

But within our own state we have places of scenic beauty and historic interest that would rival any of these. Let us plan our trip in our own state this year and see its places of beauty and interest.

Beside St. Louis and Kansas City, which are both leading cities of the country, Missouri has many other places of note. Probably no other town in the United States has preserved more of the surroundings of its great men than Hannibal, Mo., has of Mark Twain. "The world's greatest humorist." The buildings still stand where Mark Twain spent his boyhood and where he began work in a newspaper office. Several miles up the Mississippi River from Hannibal is the famous Mark Twain cave, in which many of the scenes in "Tom Sawyer" are laid. Over in Florida, Monroe County, is a cottage owned by M. A. Violette which marks Mark Twain's birthplace.

Pike County, the home of Champ Clark, is also the home of the largest nurseries in the world—the Stark Brothers' nurseries in Louisiana. "For its country homes, its miles of rock road and its old estates, Pike County is not to be surpassed," it has been said.

Nor does Missouri lack in health resorts. Elcelsior Springs, with its twenty-seven different mineral waters, its fine hotels and its country club, can vie with Colorado Springs and Hot Springs.

No country in the world surpasses the Ozarks of Southwest Missouri for rustic beauty. For cultured beauty there is the Missouri Botanical Garden in St. Louis, which today takes rank among the leading scientific institutions of the world.

In Howard County near Franklin stands the marker of the site of the first newspaper printed west of St. Louis, the Missouri Intelligencer and Boon's Lick Advertiser.

And so is Missouri the home of many other places of beauty and interest. Let's become acquainted with them this summer and see Missouri first!—The University Missourian.

G. KUENSTER DIED FRIDAY AT DENVER

Body Will Arrive in Maryville Wednesday for Burial Here—Was a Resident of Maryville for Many Years.

Mrs. Frank Barmann received word Saturday of the death of her uncle, G. Kuenster at his home in Denver, Colo., Friday. The remains will arrive in Maryville on the noon Burlington train Wednesday and will be taken to the St. Mary's cemetery where burial will take place. The G. A. R. will have charge of the services at the cemetery.

Mr. Kuenster was a resident of Maryville for many years up to about fifteen years ago when he moved to Denver. He was born in County Coblenz, Germany, December 25, 1837, and was reared to manhood there. At the age of 19 years, he immigrated to this country and settled in Monroe County, Ill., where he resided three months, and then went to Quincy, Ill. A short time afterwards he removed to Grant County, Wis., and engaged in farming. He subsequently returned to Illinois and engaged in clerking at Liberty, where he remained one year. He went next to New Orleans, La., where he resided six months, and from there he settled in Kansas City and embarked in mercantile pursuits until the breaking out of the war.

In 1861, Mr. Kuenster returned to Illinois and enlisted in Company B, twenty-second Illinois regiment, serving three months, and upon obtaining his discharge he re-enlisted in Company E, twenty-fourth Illinois Volunteers, serving three years and one month. He took an active part in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chickamauga, and others of lesser note. He was for three months steward of the hospital at Bowling Green, Ky., and had under his command a small body of troops for the defense of that institution. After obtaining his discharge in 1864 he returned to Grant county, Wis., and engaged in farming, and at the expiration of a four years' residence there he removed to Nodaway County, engaging in the grocery business in Maryville in 1868. Five months later he went to the county of his nativity on a visit, which lasted seven months. At the end of that time he again came to Maryville, and established the business conducted by Wray & Moore in the early eighties. He also was a wholesale dealer in coal oil here.

Mr. Kuenster was united in marriage April 10, 1865 to Miss Elizabeth B. Hellauer, a native of Germany. Six children survive who are Mrs. John McCoy of Arizona; Ferd Kuenster of California; Mollie and Chloe Kuenster at home; Harry Kuenster in the army, and Nettie Kuenster, who is a nun in a western convent. Mrs. Kuenster died several years ago and is buried at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Kuenster was city tax collector of Maryville one term, and was also for a like period county supervisor under the old system.

Expect 20,000 Missouri and Kansas Delegates in Convention Hall —Taft to Preside.

Kansas City, May 26.—From every section of Missouri and Kansas on May 30, (Decoration Day) delegates and delegations will assemble here for the League of Nations convention. Arrangements are being made by the joint Missouri and Kansas committee to seat the delegates 20,000 strong in Convention hall for the night session.

The big night meeting will be presided over by ex-President William Howard Taft, who will deliver the principal address. Mr. Taft will not arrive here in time for the meetings during the day as he is scheduled to speak in the afternoon at Topeka, Kansas.

Throughout Decoration Day, demonstrations will be held in different parts of the city. A meeting for the women of Missouri and Kansas who will attend the convention, has been arranged at which Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, honorary president of the American Woman Suffrage Association and chairman of the woman's committee of the National Council of Defense, will speak.

John H. Walker, past president of the United Mine Workers of America, and one of the strongest powers in the American Federation of Labor, will address some 5,000 union labor delegates from throughout the Southwest.

Prominent men of both political parties are co-operating in making all arrangements on a strictly non-partisan basis. O. H. Dean, general chairman of the League of Nations Convention Committee of Missouri and Kansas, designated the meeting as a "Convention of Americanism."

It is the announced purpose, however, of the convention leaders that the assembly is being called, and a general invitation issued to all who desire to attend from the Middle West, for the purpose of hearing the discussion of the League of Nations Covenant by some of the most noted leaders and speakers in the country. The demonstration, it is declared, is expected to place the middle West on record as favoring the ratification of the League of Nations Covenant by the United States senate, which is now in session.

RECOGNIZE MISSOURI IN BIG EDUCATIONAL MEET

Miss T. C. Gecks Selected as a Speaker at Milwaukee Convention—"New Democracy" Keynote of Session.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—The State of Missouri has been given signal recognition in the plans for America's greatest educational convention by the selection of Miss T. C. Gecks, a member of the Board of Education of St. Louis, as one of the speakers in the main session of the National Education Association Convention to be held in Milwaukee, June 28 to July 5.

It will be an epoch-making convention because its great problem is the rebuilding of the world by the war and the part of education in this great task. On the other hand, it will be a convention for the average teacher and nearly half of the attendance will be of women teachers from the grade schools of the cities and from the rural schools. The Hotel Plankinton was selected for the headquarters of the Missouri delegation.

The development of the new democracy is to be the keynote of the entire convention, however, as it applies to the public schools and this will be discussed by both the average teachers and some of the world's greatest educators. It is even hoped that President Wilson will be able to be here to speak on the League of Nations. Word from the White House is that he will come if he can.

The part of "Elementary Education" is assigned to Miss Gecks, who is in charge of the primary educational work in the schools of St. Louis.

Another Missouri speaker will be Henry J. Waters of the Kansas City Star, selected as the representative of the Agricultural Educational authorities on the general topic "The new world and the demand that it will make upon public education." Mr. Waters was for many years on the Kansas State Agricultural College before becoming a newspaper writer.

During the general session Thursday morning, July 3, under the subject "Contribution of Teachers to the Development of Democracy" the part of the rural schools will be addressed by Mrs. Marie Turner Harvey of the Porter Rural School of Kirksville, Mo., one of the most remarkable rural schools in the world.

To Give Play Monday Night.

The St. Mary's dramatic club will present the play "A True American" at St. Mary's Hall on Monday night, June 2. This play was put on by the club a short time before Lent and was such a success that they were requested again to put it on.

57 RURAL SCHOOL STUDENTS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

County Superintedent Cooper Urges Graduates to Continue Their Education Along Agricultural Lines.

The annual eighth grade graduation exercises of the Polk township rural schools were held Saturday afternoon at the First M. E. Church in this city, fifty-seven members of the graduating class receiving their diplomas.

The church was packed by the large crowd who came from throughout Nodaway and surrounding counties to witness the program presented by the youngsters.

The program consisted of a number of recitations and musical numbers by the graduates from each of the various schools and was opened with an invocation by Rev. R. E. Snodgrass.

The final part of the program was the presentation of the diplomas by County Superintendent of Schools Bert Cooper. Following the presentation of the diplomas, Prof. Cooper made an address to the graduates in which he urged upon them the necessity to continue their education, and suggested that every student make a study of the new methods of agriculture. In his talk Prof. Cooper stated that the business of farming is now one of the most important in the world, and he explained to the students that the opportunities which are offered them here at home are very promising. He brought out the work of the modern farmer and the important place which he fills in the world today, and urged the students who have already learned the principals of farming to continue along this line.

OLDEST M. U. BUILDING TO GO.

Observatory on Main Campus Will be Torn Down in Short Time.

Columbia, May 26.—The telescope in the Laws Observatory on the West Campus of the University of Missouri is being dismantled and the historic observatory soon will be wrecked. Laws Observatory will be replaced by the new building for the School of Journalism, funds for which were given by Ward A. Neff, a graduate of the School of Journalism.

The part of the observatory that constitutes the cone, clock-room and transit-room is the oldest structure now standing on the campus of the University. This section of the building was built in 1853 on the site where the Engineering Building now stands.

The observatory was moved to its present location on the north side of the Quadrangle in 1880. Shortly after the building had been moved, Dr. S. S. Laws, a former president of the University, gave money with which to purchase a telescope and to erect an octagon, the room which holds the telescope. The structure was then given the name Laws Observatory.

The telescope is 71 years old, the first telescope of any considerable size west of the Mississippi River, according to Prof. R. H. Baker of the department of astronomy.

HEALTH SERVICE AIDS DOCTORS.

Laboratory at the University of Missouri Answers Many Calls from Physicians of State.

Columbia, May 26.—From fifty to one hundred requests rom physicians of the state come in each week to the public health laboratory of the department of preventive medicine of the University of Missouri. These range all the way from requests for anti-typhoid vaccine to an analysis of a mother's milk.

The great object of this public health laboratory is to help doctors make diagnosis.

Blood specimens are examined for typhoid fever, sputum for indications of tuberculosis, germs from the throat for diphtheria, and water is analyzed for municipalties and for individuals whose requests come through doctors.

Vials are prepared at the laboratory and sent out for sputum, as great care has to be taken to have such specimens sent in proper containers. Cases are also sent out for samples of water. These cases contain sterilized bottles and ice that the water may arrive at the laboratory in a cool condition. Anti-typhoid vaccine is sent out from the laboratory free to the doctors of the state. Occasionally the head of a dog is received by the laboratory with the request that it be examined for rabies. Pathological specimens of tumors also are examined for indications of cancer.

Sets of slides have been prepared by Dr. M. P. Ravenel of the health laboratory for the use of doctors in giving lectures on various subjects of interest to the general public. These slides as well as a lantern are lent free to doctors requesting them. Members of the laboratory also give illustrated talks on medical and sanitary subjects whenever they are requested. This public health laboratory is one of the many things the University is doing which has earned for it the name of the State's Service Station.

SPRATT TO RUN FOR CONGRESS.

St. Joseph Man Says He Will be a Candidate Again.

In a letter to C. L. Kennedy of St Joseph, William E. Spratt of St. Joseph, now in France as a Y. M. C. A. secretary, states point blank that it is his intention to run for Congress from this district. In his letter, Mr. Spratt had the ollowing about his candidacy:

"About my running for congress. Sure I am going to run for congress. I said that last August. My coming over here has nothing to do with that. If Gabbert wants to run that is his privilege—let him run. If I hadn't gotten into this race, maybe I would not enter, but Gabbert's decision to enter or stay out has nothing to do with my determination. I am in and I am going to stay in. It is an utter piece of foolishness for Gabbert to let a few fellows steer him into the hardest race he could pick, and in consideration of all the other desirable positions he could get into. There is no sense in he and I putting ourselves against each other, when we could just as well help one another. I have nothing more to say. I have said my mind and determination.

"I am coming home now before many weeks, and it will be a Grand and Glorious Feeling, to be back in the best town on earth."

"REMEMBER SOLDIERS MAY 30."

Governor Gardner Makes Appeal in Memorial Day Proclamation.

Jefferson City, May 26.—Governor Gardner Saturday issued the following Memorial Day proclamation:

"I need scarcely to urge the people of this commonwealth this year to pay homage to our soldier dead. The very heart of the Nation has been touched with a sense of our new and great loss. Fresh within our memory are the scenes of a few short months ago when our brave soldier lads marched away, leaving friends and homeland behind, to defend their country and their flag. Thousands of these brave lads now sleep the long sleep in fair France and on this Memorial Day the hands of strangers will place the wreath and the flower upon their graves, and in a strange land the Stars and Stripes will wave above them. Some of our noble daughters also made the supreme sacrifice, and tenderly, lovingly, we honor their memory.

"In thousands of our homes on this Memorial Day the service flag, with its star of gold, will be a mute reminder of the price that home has paid for peace.

"With a deeper reverence for our soldier dead of other wars, and with a love more tender, we will pay tribute to their memory. With confidence, I call upon the people of this commonwealth to fittingly observe Friday, May 30, as Memorial Day in honor of those who have given their lives to preserve the Nation, to maintain liberty and to make the world safe for humanity."

THE PAY OF THE TEACHERS.

From the St. Louis Republic.

In the general clamor for justly higher standards of living and better pay for work performed, the voice of the public school teacher is making itself heard. Certainly the teacher has a claim that needs little urging. The underpaid teacher has been with us for a very long time. Since the first public school was started in the cabin of the pioneer the teacher has taken the greater part of his pay in prestige and professional pride.

The low wages paid have long since driven the majority of the men teachers out of the profession. These same low wages are now driving ambitious women out of the ranks of the underpaid, depleted teaching forces of America. At the present time Boards of Education are having the hardest work they have ever known in filling the school staffs with even passable teachers. The war took away thousands of men who will never go back to the schoolroom. It carried into other lines of work many thousands of women who have no intention of teaching again.

And there was never a time when there was more need for the teaching profession. An effort is being made to give 8,000,000 aliens an understanding of the English language. There is a general desire to reduce and wipe out the high percentages of illiteracy shown by many of our States. The war showed us plainly that such conditions are a menace to the stability of America as we now know it.

We are not matching these demands with any disposition to increase the pay of the teacher. We are apparently content to admit the teacher is underpaid, to go on paying our school janitors more than we pay a teacher who has spent years in learning a profession and to fight with vindictive bitterness any attempt to increase school taxes that the teacher may be better paid.

Billiousness is a disorder involving he stomach, liver and bowels. It opens he door for disease. Prickly Ash Biters is the right remedy. It drives out ile and impurities and makes a man eel bright, vigorous and cheerful. rice $1.25 per bottle.—Maryville Drug Jo., Special Agents.—Adv.

IN THE SPRING

When Energy and Vitality are Lowest, then—Influenza!

(By S. C. BOWER, M. D.)

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin and feel the exhileration of real good health tingling thru their bodies. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against ills of all kinds. You are apt to suffer from an attack of Influenza if your health is run down.

Purify the blood and you can defy influenza. This is the time to clean house and freshen up a bit.

Melvern, Kans.—"I was troubled with scrofula, in fact, I had it from infancy up until I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which was when I was fifteen years old. I took about fifteen or sixteen bottles of it and got entirely rid of the disease. It has never returned since that time and I have often recommended the 'Golden Medical Discovery' to others."—Mrs. Ida V. Wilson.

WAR DEPARTMENT WILL RETAIN ORDNANCE PLANTS.

Washington, D. C.—During the war the government expended more than 130,000,000 in building and enlarging facilities of forty-three plants and three government arsenals for the production of artillery material, a statement by Assistant Secretary of War Benedict Crowell shows. These facilities were developed for all purposes, and succeeded in a marvelous degree in meeting the needs of the army.

To be able to meet the manufacturing requirements of any possible future emergency, the Chief of Ordnance has made a study of possible requirements and has obtained the Secretary of War's approval for the retention of certain plants. It is not expected to operate the production plants, but to keep them in readiness that production may begin immediately if occasion should ever require. At the same time, small production units will be built up at the arsenals to meet the needs of peace-time manufacture and also manufacture new types of artillery material which may be developed from time to time.

Under this plan, the War Department will always be ready to meet an emergency and, should another ever arise, can immediately begin the production of immense quantities of ordnance.

Booklets to Show Dairy Trend.

A series of four booklets, showing where the United States stands in the dairy business in relation to other countries, is to be published by the United States Department of Agriculture through the Dairy Division. While based on statistics dating back to 1850, the booklets will not contain tables of figures, but will give information in graphic chart with explanations showing the trend of the various branches of the dairy industry. The first booklet deals with dairy live stock, the second with the butter industry, the third with the cheese industry, and the fourth with other dairy products, such as market milk, ice cream, and condensed milk. The bulletins also show a development and trend of the industry in the United States and other countries.

HOW AMERICAN FARMS ARE COMING THROUGH WITH RYE.

More acres and more bushels of rye were harvested in 1918 than in any previous year in the history of the United States.

From 1849 to 1909 rye production in the United States was practically stationary. From 1909 to 1918 the production was almost tripled, the greatest increase coming in 1917 and 1918.

Five years ago there was approximately 1 acre of rye for each 21 acres of wheat in the United States. In 1918 there was approximately 1 acre of rye for each 10 acres of wheat.

The 1918 rye crop was more than 76,000,000 bushels.

The world production of rye amounts to about one and two-thirds billion bushels, somewhat less than half the annual wheat production.

The United States Department of Agriculture thinks it probable, now that farmers are becoming familiar with the crop and its advantages, that rye will have a permanently larger place in American agriculture, and that from an agricultural point of view there should be a further considerable increase in production.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the Motorist

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana), as a public servant, interprets its obligation to the 2,000,000 motorists in the territory it serves as reaching beyond simply supplying them with gasoline and lubricating oils.

The Company feels that it falls short of its full duty, if in the manufacture of gasoline and lubricating oils the elements of economy, efficiency, dependability, and protection are not inherent in every gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) requires of its products, that, in addition to furnishing dependable power and lubrication the car investment of the motorist must be protected—his repair bills must be minimized—the life of the car must be prolonged.

Every frictional surface must be conserved. The engine must respond instantly in emergencies. The motorist must get every possible mile out of every gallon of Standard Oil gasoline which he buys.

To make these products as available to the 5-gallon buyer as to the 500- or 5000-gallon buyer, the Company maintains 1300 service stations conveniently located throughout the territory.

The Company realizes that its interests and those of the motorist are a unit—tangible and concrete.

Intelligent self-interest impels the Company to safeguard every product it manufactures and distributes that it may at all times give to the motorist the utmost of value and service.

No Soldiers To Return To America Illiterate

Secretary Baker during his recent visit to the American forces in Europe was much impressed with the educational system introduced in the army, and speaks with special enthusiasm about the great work being done by the American Expeditionary Force University at Beaume, France. He said the buildings at Beaume were originally put up for a base hospital, and the war came to an end before they were occupied. The university was established there and has over nine thousand students. There are eleven departments in the university, including a school of agriculture, a divinity school, a school of law, a school of medicine, a college of arts, a college of sciences and a school of dentistry.

College Professors Instruct.

"They got their teachers," said Secretary Baker, "in part from the teachers which the Y. M. C. A. brought over when it planned to do work along that line, but for the most part the teachers are college professors or college graduates who were in the ranks themselves as soldiers, and who have volunteered as teachers; and as you go through the university you find, for instance, a private on the platform lecturing on integral calculus. There will be seated down in the classroom a major, a couple of captains, a lieutenant or two, sergeants and corporals; but the man who knows is the private, he is the professor, and the military hierarchy is completely upset before the intellectual hierarchy. Perhaps in the next department of the university, however, a major will be the lecturer, and so on, sometimes an officer, sometimes a noncommissioned officer, and often a privte.

"Men are sent to the university by volunteering. They have, also, a university extension course which is something like the old chautauqua literary circle. This was established for the benefit of men who could not get to the university, or did not want to do so. These men write in, for instance, that they got as far as algebra in mathematics and would like to take up plane geometry. They send him a text book, tell him how to study it, and he sends in the results—the work is carried on in this way. It is a complete educational system.

"The university at Beaume is striking in two respects: In the first place, the cheering and stirring thing about it to me is the readiness with which the American soldier lays down his arms and takes up his books, and, in the second place, it shows what, I think, in the future will be the normal occupation of a permanent army. Instead of the men of the permanent army living in idleness, we will have them doing military things the rest of the time, so that they will come out with an education and the army will become the West Point of the enlisted men. That is really a great idea.

"In addition to the university, as you know, some 3,000 of our men are matriculated in colleges in England and France. They are actually in Cambridge, Oxford, the University of London, University of Manchester, Trinity College of the University of Dublin, and in the Sorbonne and other French universities, so that 3,000 of our men are in foreign universities and are taking courses there.

"They have at Beaume, also, as a part of the university, what they call the normal college—and to this school selected men are sent from the various divisions in France. These men take a course in pedagogy. They go back to their divisions after three or four weeks of this, and set up schools to teach the men in the elementary branches.

"Of course, all the men in the university agree to stay until the completion of the course for which they have matriculated, which is three or four months, I think.

None to Return Illiterate.

"The idea of all of this is that no soldier will return to the United States illiterate. In addition to providing opportunities for higher education, and education in the professions, they get down to the A B C's of the matter by giving men an opportunity to take up elementary subjects, this making it practically impossible for anybody to get back to the United States without having acquired a knowledge of English sufficient to enable him to read and write.

"The enthusiasm of the men for educational work is the most amazing thing. Everybody at the university is there voluntarily and the professors are, many of them, men of great eminence; the head of the department of philosophy, for instance is a professor of philosophy in one of the great American universities. I was told with one accord, every place I went, that a man in Beaume would get the same amount of work done in a month that the average, or better than average, college student would do in three months. The boys are more mature. For some time their minds have been fallow—at rest on intellectual subjects. This educational activity is taking the place of the old interest in war and the central idea is sliding over from one thing to the other, so that their concentration of attention is marvelous.

"I think it is entirely likely, from what we are seeing over there, that the development of a serious educational program in the Army itself is a possibility; and, of course, if possible, is a desirable thing."

And Minister Asks a 10 Million Dollar American Bank for Latin State.

From the Portland Oregonian.

San Francisco, Calif.—The first and greatest need of the Republic of Salvador is money, said Salvador Sol, new minister plenipotentiary for that country at Washington. He recently arrived from South America. The money is needed at once, according to Minister Sol.

"Twenty-five million dollars are needed properly to take care of our coffee crop and the government of the republic will not only welcome foreign capital, but will make every fair inducement to attract it," he said. "We are particularly anxious to increase our commercial relations with the United States.

"The reason Salvador did not actively enter into the war against Germany was there was an old clique of politicians favorable to that country. Since the war that element has been completely eliminated. The administration now is entirely in the hands of pro-American officials. Our president, Jorge Melendez, was educated in the United States and I am one of a number of others in official positions who have had the same advantages.

"We are particularly anxious for some large banks that can do business in a big way to open up in Salvador. There are two banks of a capital of ½ million dollars which have started business, but what we really need is an institution which will have a capitalization of at least 10 million dollars

"Any man who has capital, say about $10,000, will find excellent opportunities for investment which, with work and care will bring him returns well worth while. I should strongly advise against any young man who has only his hands and his brain to depend on going down there.

"Our coffee, before the war, was consumed in France, Italy, Germany and England. Now Germany is eliminated and the United States is getting one-half our crop.

"It may be my particular endeavor to foster the commercial relation between the two countries and to interest capital.

"We rely for our protection on the United States, confident of its fairness; so much so that we sent our delegate to the Paris peace convention instructed to concur with the vote of the United States on all questions which came up. We do not fear anything, as we are confident the Monroe Doctrine will stand and that this country will safeguard the nations of this continent."

A BANK FOR THE LIVE ONES
How To Win Friends
We all want friends.
A worried expression will not win them. A face free from strain and worry is usually the first step toward winning them.
When you are getting ahead, the place it shows first is in your face.
If a bank account does nothing else, it will change a face of worry to one of smiles, and the unworried look and smile means strength and friends to the possessor.
